

By Air By Rail Webpage

When our class started this project I thought it was going to be impossible to finish. However as the class continued to plod along it became much easier. All and all I am happy with my final product and hope you are also

When we were first starting this project it was a little hectic trying to gather all of the needed information and trying to get it somewhat organized. As I progressed through the stages of creating the By Air By Rail homepage I realized that the project was not nearly as difficult as I had first thought. After I had completed my site template I used it and the base for all of the pages within the site. After this all I had to do was add the pictures and information I had compiled and I was finished.

The final product turned out very well in my opinion. The site I created easily flows from page to page, making the website and attractive and information packed tool. If I had more time to work on this page I would probably leave it how it is, the only exception being the logo I created--when compared to the rest of the site it seems out of place.

By: Ben Powell